Olivarez joins Strategic Partnerships as senior consultant

Former Nueces County sheriff boasts 30 years of law enforcement experience

AUSTIN (6/29/10) – Former Nueces County Sheriff Larry Olivarez, Sr. has been named a senior consultant for Strategic Partnerships, Inc., an Austin-based government procurement and national research firm. Specializing in law enforcement and county government, Olivarez brings more than 30 years of law enforcement experience to the SPI consulting team.

In addition to his work in county law enforcement, Olivarez also spent more than 20 years in city law enforcement, having served as an officer and sergeant with the Corpus Christi Police Department. He has been an instructor for the National Crime Prevention Council in Washington, D.C., and participated in training sessions at the National Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Academy. Olivarez has also worked closely with government employees, having served as chair of a city employee credit union board. He also has worked closely with both city and school leaders on programs relating to youth in the community. In his more than three decades of law enforcement work, Olivarez has established relationships with other city and county elected officials, law enforcement officials from college campuses to county sheriffs throughout Texas and with federal law enforcement officials.
