

Haley Dearing

Haley Dearing's studies in both political science and business development along with her interest in government helped steer her to SPI's procurement consulting team of experts. Her broad-ranging work experience has been concentrated across the public, private and nonprofit sectors. She has expertise in relationship-building and problem-solving, key components for successful SPI client strategy in any industry sector or governmental jurisdiction.

Haley assists clients with 'Go To Market' plans, strategy and implementation. She also works with the SPI Team on all types of communication outreach for clients.

She is a graduate of A&M University and holds a Masters Degree in international business from Hult International Business School in San Francisco, California.